Fitch Affirms Deutsche Sparkassen Leasing at 'A+'; Outlook Stable

Thu 09 Jul, 2026 - 11:44 ET

Fitch Ratings - Frankfurt am Main - 09 Jul 2026: Fitch Ratings has affirmed Deutsche Sparkassen Leasing AG & Co. KG's (DSL) Long-Term Issuer Default Rating (IDR) at 'A+' with a Stable Outlook. A full list of ratings is below.

KEY RATING DRIVERS

Support-Driven Ratings: DSL's ratings are driven by a very high probability of support, if required, from its ultimate shareholders, which are part of Sparkassen-Finanzgruppe (SFG; A+/Stable), the German savings bank network. This is reflected in DSL's Shareholder Support Rating (SSR) of 'a+'. The Stable Outlook on DSL's Long-Term IDR mirrors that on SFG's Long-Term IDR.

No SCP Assigned: Fitch does not assign a Standalone Credit Profile (SCP) to DSL because its franchise is highly correlated with that of SFG, and there is a high level of financial, operational and strategic integration with the group. DSL generates most of its business via its own sales network, but we believe its franchise value is ultimately derived from SFG, via the German savings banks' client relationships with SMEs and their broad market coverage. DSL has modest profitability and high leverage on a standalone basis.

Core Role in Group: In Fitch's view, DSL is central in supporting SFG's strategic objectives as a competence centre for leasing and factoring. Fitch believes a default of DSL would create huge reputational risk for SFG, and the record of ordinary and extraordinary support provided to DSL by SFG underpins our view of DSL's core role in the group. Further support, if needed, would be immaterial for SFG, in our view. SFG owns 100% of DSL via its individual members.

Solid Franchise: DSL serves as the central provider of leasing and factoring products for SFG's clients and is one of the largest leasing companies in Germany, with new business volume of around EUR11.4 billion in the financial year to end-September 2025 (FY25). DSL's customers are primarily German SMEs, which are sourced internally and from SFG's savings banks (around 30% of new business), with which the company closely cooperates. DSL's leasing and other products are supplementary to SFG's product offering, demonstrating the strong alignment of DSL's market focus with SFG's.

Adequate Risk Framework, Asset Quality: DSL's balance sheet is dominated by banking, factoring and other receivables, and leasing assets, with the problem receivables four-year average at 3% at end-FY25. DSL generates most of its business in Germany, but the portfolio is reasonably well diversified by client, asset type and segment, due to DSL's strong SME focus. In Fitch's view, DSL's asset quality benefits from the secured nature of most of its receivables and leasing assets, with only moderate exposure to residual value risk via its operating lease portfolio. Fitch views DSL's residual value risk approach as sound and commensurate with its peers.

Stable Profitability: DSL's profitability has historically been modest, with its pretax income/average assets ratio (calculated under German GAAP) at 0.4% in FY25 (0.4% average in past four years). Fitch calculates DSL's profitability using German GAAP, under which it is lower than under IFRS. DSL's profitability could face pressure in the medium term as uncertainty resulting from Germany's stagnating economy constrains portfolio growth and could lead to increased credit costs. In our view, longer-term profitability be determined by the company's ability to deliver consistent new business in line with its targets and manage its operating and risk costs effectively.

High Leverage: DSL's gross debt/tangible equity including funds for general banking risks was 13x at end-FY25. This is Fitch's core ratio for assessing and comparing leasing companies' capitalisation and leverage profiles and therefore excludes net asset values but adds funds for general banking risks to total equity and treats DSL's subordinated liabilities as debt. DSL does not plan to significantly deleverage in the medium term, but we believe equity injections combined with internal equity generation benefits will support its capitalisation profile in the longer term. DSL is not directly subject to regulatory capital or leverage requirements.

Primarily Parent-Funded: DSL is mainly funded by SFG members, including savings (52% of total non-equity funding at end-FY25) and federal state banks (19%), with the rest (29%) from development and commercial banks. Fitch does not expect DSL's funding mix to significantly change in the medium to longer term.

DSL is not part of SFG's Institutional Protection Scheme and does not collect private retail or corporate deposits. In Fitch's view, it has acceptable financial flexibility and liquidity for the rating, with around 70% of its debt unsecured at end-FY25 and liquid assets at around 7% of short-term debt, and substantial undrawn credit lines available. We believe any additional liquidity could be provided by SFG, if required.

RATING SENSITIVITIES

Factors that Could, Individually or Collectively, Lead to Negative Rating Action/Downgrade

DSL's IDR and SSR are primarily sensitive to adverse changes in our assessment of SFG's ability and propensity to provide timely support. A downgrade of SFG's Long-Term IDR would likely result in a downgrade of DSL's Long-Term IDR and SSR. DSL's Short-Term IDR would be downgraded if SFG's Short-Term IDR was downgraded.

A weakening of SFG's propensity to support DSL, for example, if the company's role in the group diminishes or if it becomes less integrated, could lead to Fitch notching DSL's Long-Term IDR down from SFG's Long-Term IDR, which would result in a downgrade. A weakening of DSL's role in the group could be indicated by a transfer of leasing activities to other providers within the group. Similarly, a reduction of funding ultimately received from SFG members by DSL, indicating weaker integration, could pressure DSL's ratings.

DSL's ratings would also come under pressure if Fitch believes the shareholders' abilities to provide timely support have weakened. This could be the case if the decision-making processes among the owners impedes timely provision of support.

Factors that Could, Individually or Collectively, Lead to Positive Rating Action/Upgrade

An upgrade of SFG would likely result in an upgrade of DSL's IDR and SSR.

ESG CONSIDERATIONS

The highest level of ESG credit relevance is a score of '3', unless otherwise disclosed in this section. A score of '3' means ESG issues are credit neutral or have only a minimal credit impact on the entity, either due to their nature or the way in which they are being managed by the entity. Fitch's ESG Relevance Scores are not inputs in the rating process; they are an observation on the relevance and materiality of ESG factors in the rating decision. In issuing and maintaining its ratings and in making other reports (including forecast information), Fitch relies on factual information it receives from issuers and underwriters and from other sources Fitch believes to be credible. Fitch conducts a reasonable investigation of the factual information relied upon by it in accordance with its ratings methodology, and obtains reasonable verification of that information from independent sources, to the extent such sources are available for a given security or in a given jurisdiction. The manner of Fitch's factual investigation and the scope of the third-party verification it obtains will vary depending on the nature of the rated security and its issuer, the requirements and practices in the jurisdiction in which the rated security is offered and sold and/or the issuer is located, the availability and nature of relevant public information, access to the management of the issuer and its advisers, the availability of pre-existing third-party verifications such as audit reports, agreed-upon procedures letters, appraisals, actuarial reports, engineering reports, legal opinions and other reports provided by third parties, the availability of independent and competent third-party verification sources with respect to the particular security or in the particular jurisdiction of the issuer, and a variety of other factors. Users of Fitch's ratings and reports should understand that neither an enhanced factual investigation nor any third-party verification can ensure that all of the information Fitch relies on in connection with a rating or a report will be accurate and complete. Ultimately, the issuer and its advisers are responsible for the accuracy of the information they provide to Fitch and to the market in offering documents and other reports. In issuing its ratings and its reports, Fitch must rely on the work of experts, including independent auditors with respect to financial statements and attorneys with respect to legal and tax matters. Further, ratings and forecasts of financial and other information are inherently forward-looking and embody assumptions and predictions about future events that by their nature cannot be verified as facts. As a result, despite any verification of current facts, ratings and forecasts can be affected by future events or conditions that were not anticipated at the time a rating or forecast was issued or affirmed. Fitch Ratings makes routine, commonly-accepted adjustments to reported financial data in accordance with the relevant criteria and/or industry standards to provide financial metric consistency for entities in the same sector or asset class.

The complete span of best- and worst-case scenario credit ratings for all rating categories ranges from 'AAA' to 'D'. Fitch also provides information on best-case rating upgrade scenarios and worst-case rating downgrade scenarios (defined as the 99th percentile of rating transitions, measured in each direction) for international credit ratings, based on historical performance. A simple average across asset classes presents best-case upgrades of 4 notches and worst-case downgrades of 8 notches at the 99th percentile.
